LONELIEST WHALE IN THE WORLD

Somewhere in the ocean swims an ancient whale. All alone. For years it has been swimming around singing, calling and waiting for another whale to answer. But none ever does. The loneliest whale in the world sings in its own language, a language that is incomprehensible to other whales.

A big animal and great feelings in a tiny performance about loneliness.

For those who have ever been lost in the store or have had none to play with. And for those who like to sit alone in peace and quiet. A visual, happy-sad performance with watermusic.

Can be performed in english.
